

Patrick Sheehan, MD

Board-Certified Emergency Medicine Physician
Founder, Gulf Coast Emergency Medicine Consulting

Professional Summary

Board-certified Emergency Medicine physician with over 10 years of active clinical practice in high-acuity emergency departments. Provides independent standard of care review, causation analysis, written expert reports, and testimony in medical malpractice litigation involving emergency department care.

Board Certification

American Board of Emergency Medicine (ABEM), Certified 2018–Present

Medical Licensure

Louisiana, Pennsylvania, DEA, CDS

Clinical Experience

North Oaks Health System – Hammond, LA | Emergency Medicine Attending Physician | 2017–Present

Management of high-volume emergency department patients across all acuity levels, including critical care, trauma, sepsis, stroke, and cardiac emergencies.

Cooper University Hospital – Camden, NJ | Emergency Medicine Resident Physician | 2014–2017

Training & Education

Emergency Medicine Residency – Cooper University Hospital (2014–2017)

Doctor of Medicine – Jefferson Medical College (2014)

BBA, Finance & Political Science, Cum Laude – University of Notre Dame (2009)

Selected Publications

Rihn JA, Gandhi SD, Sheehan P, et al. Disc space preparation in transforaminal lumbar interbody fusion. Clinical Orthopaedics and Related Research (2014).

Tumminello R, Glaspey L, Bhamidipati A, Sheehan P, Patel S. Early Disseminated Lyme Disease Masquerading as Mononucleosis. Journal of Emergency Medicine (2017).